Pricelist 2010 / 2011

With its lake and surroundings, Bohinj is one of those natural wonders with which Slovenia has been generously endowed. As our planet adorned itself with various decorations, right here it created a natural paradise. As you come to the edge of the lake, you can hear somewhere deep in your soul the magnificent symphony of nature. The enchanting song of this unspoiled wonder catches up your gaze. In Bohinj each season has its own delights. The gushing waters in spring, the irrepressible relaxation of the nature and people in summer, the magical play of the sun's colours in autumn and the white silence of winter - such is the very harmony which modern man so urgently desires. You need only hop up the nearest hill or row out into the middle of the lake to hear the murmuring of your enraptured soul. Here the beauty of the nature has that eternal quality, quietly gazing at itself in the smoothness of the lake. And then the visitor stops for a moment or two, and forgets about everything measurable, how much anything is worth - even what time is it.

The natives of Bohinj are a particular kind of people. During their long sojourn in this natural paradise they have fallen completely in love with this piece of the earth. They measure time in seasons, and open their hearts wide enough to welcome visitors and share with them the beauties of this place - the mountain peaks, rare animals, fish in the lake, the sunrise and sunset, comfort and their healthy food. No-one could leave here with an empty heart, nor could one leave without wishing to return. Bohinj imprints itself deeply in the album of our memories.

Apartment house Jager in Srednja vas, on the edge of Triglav National Park, is a great starting point for nature walks and mountain hikes.
